Recreational event gives community members opportunity to camp

By Jessica Lipari,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- Warner Barracks community members can look around and feel like they are out in the great outdoors, when in all actuality they are just minutes away from their backyard.

Family and Morale, Welfare, and Recreation will host the second annual Night at the Lake at Engineer Lake June 10. This overnight event provides the opportunity to camp out at the lake and watch live entertainment.

"Many community members can remember camping out in the backyard of their home, Engineer Lake provides this backyard feeling," said Juergen Hagemann, FMWR Business Recreation Division chief.

Night at the Lake is open to the community, said Darrell Clay, director of Family and Morale, Welfare, and Recreation.

"Community members are encouraged to come out and enjoy the evening events, which include live entertainment and a family-friendly movie," Clay said.

This year there will be two live entertainment performances, the rock band Operation Acetylene and country music singer Arizona

"Night at the Lake is not only for campers, it is open to the entire community."

Joel. Those who would like to attend the event can start setting up their tent at 3 p.m. The live music starts at 5.p.m. and ends at 7 p.m. followed by a family-friendly movie at 8:30 p.m.

The event started last year and it was a great success, Hagemann said.

"Last year's event had 30 families camping at the lake and, based on feedback, we are expecting the turnout (for this year's event) to be doubled," Clay said. "It gives families an opportunity to participate in camping activities that they may not otherwise get to do in Germany. It provides a safe environment that is close to home."

The event is free. Entertainment provided is at no cost to campers. When campers or those enjoying the entertainment get hungry, the FMWR imbiß wagon will be out at the lake selling dinner and breakfast food items, along with beverages.

Women get early screening opportunity June 20-21

By Jessica Lipari, USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- Early detection of breast cancer and treatment can lead women to living a longer and healthier life.

The best method to detect for breast cancer early on is a mammogram.

"Most women don't know when they should be first screened," said Gail Kemp, population health nurse for U.S. Army Garrison Bamberg Health Clinic. "Routinely they should be screened starting at the age of 40 and if they have a history of breast cancer in the family then they should start at the age of 35."

Kemp has arranged for a mobile mammogram unit to come to Warner Barracks on June 20 - 21 from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. It will be located in the parking lot of the Bamberg Health Clinic and is available by appointment only.

When it comes to mammograms, the biggest fear people have is going off post, Kemp said.

Kemp created a program called Bamberg Women's Health Day. She arranges monthly visits to the Bamberg Radiology Center for women needing the routine screening and accompanies the patients to the center.

The program was created to help increase the odds of catching breast cancer early by ensuring women living in the community over the age of 40 got their biannual mammograms.

The Katterbach military community initiated a similar program by partnering with Mammographie Screening Mittelfranken Land (Mammobile), allowing for hundreds of women to get screened.

Mammobile has a team of radiologists, gynecologist and pathologists from Germany who provide this mobile service to women who require screening. The mobile team screens at least 40 patients per day in 10-minute intervals, and translated results are returned to the Bamberg Health Clinic within seven-10 days.

Volunteers help make the mobile screenings possible, without their support it would not be available, Kemp said.

There are three categories of patients who can receive screening by the

A mobile mammogram unit, like the one pictured above at Ansbach, will be at Warner Barracks June 20 - 21 from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. It will be located at the parking lot of the Bamberg Health Clinic to provide mammograms. The service will be available during Bamberg Women's Health Day for those who qualify and have an appointment only.

mammobile when it visits Warner Barracks.

They are:

- Tricare Prime Overseas active duty and active duty family members
- Tricare Standard active duty family member or retirees
- Department of Defense Civilians

Tricare Prime Overseas and Tricare Standard will cover the costs for the mammogram if the patient meets specific conditions. The health clinic will handle the paperwork for Tricare beneficiaries. DOD civilians are required to pay for the costs of the mammogram.

Breast cancer is the second most common cancer in women in the United States; about one in eight women will develop breast cancer, according to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention.

Sustainment brigade Soldier stops bank robbery in Florida money from bank employees and left with an undetermined amount of cash.

Peoples, who watched the whole situation transpire, said he knew he could not stand by. He had to do something.

"He waved the gun at one of my children. So after he walked out of the bank, I followed him out," said Peoples, speaking with a local television station reporter in the parking lot of the bank after the entire ordeal.

After leaving his children with some innocent bystanders inside the bank, Peoples quickly went outside, jumped in his rental car and pulled up behind the suspect's getaway car, blocking him in. After ramming Peoples' car several times, the suspect jumped out of his car and approached Peoples, brandishing his weapon. Peoples remained undeterred.

"I've been through five deployments. I've fought the Muqtada militia (in Iraq), everybody you can think of, so weapons getting pointed at me, it doesn't really bother me anymore," Peoples said. "I took the weapon away from him and put him on the ground and the rest was history."

Peoples held the suspect down until local authorities arrived on the scene. Deputies arrested the man, and Peoples went back inside the bank to retrieve his children.

"Every time I get deployed, I always tell my children I'm going to fight the bad men. When I walked back in the bank, my oldest boy said 'did you get the bad men?' and I said 'yep, I got the bad men' and everyone applauded," Peoples said.

"We were surprised by what happened, but not really shocked," said Capt. Jedmund Greene, the commander of the 386th Movement Control Team, 14th Transportation Battalion, 16th Sust.

While visiting family members in Sarasota, Fla., on leave, Staff Sgt. Eddie Peoples from the 386th Movement Control Team, detained a suspect who had allegedly just committed a bank robbery and held him until the police arrived.

On the afternoon of May 31, Peoples and his two children stopped at a local bank in Sarasota. While Peoples was there with his children, the suspect who has been charged with armed robbery and is being detained by local authorities, entered the bank, demanded

Casing ceremony marks new era for Army command

By Evan Dyson, FMWRC Public Affairs

ALEXANDRIA, VA -- Employees of the Army's Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation Command joined together May 26 for the casing of the Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation Command colors near the Nation's capital.

In accordance with 2005 Base Realignment and Closure law, the command is moving from Alexandria, Va., to a new home at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio, Texas.

Casing the colors is a traditional flag ceremony that symbolizes the movement of a unit.

While some may see the event as a sad occasion, FMWRC Commanding General Maj. Gen. Reuben Jones sees hope.

"It's going to be better," he told the audience. "That's what life and that's what change is all about."

The support the organization provides to Soldiers and their Families will continue, he said.

"It's just the tip of the iceberg, what's done here [at headquarters]. There are other warriors " about 27,000 of them "on garrisons around the world who benefit from the work that the employees here do ... allowing them to go out and execute programs."

Waiting for the organization in Texas are several new and renovated facilities on Fort Sam Houston, including the historic Fort Sam Houston Theatre, the future home of the Army Entertainment Division, and a new building for the Maj. Gen. Robert M. Joyce Family and MWR Academy, which will serve as a training facility for garrison and headquarters employees.

Distinguished guests at Thursday's event included Craig College, Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff for Installation Management; retired Maj. Gen. Tony Taguba, former commanding general of FMWRC's predecessor, the Community and Family Support Center; John McLaurin, Director of Force Management for G3/5/7; Kathleen Marin; Director of Installation Services for ACSIM; and Diane Randan, Director of Resource Management for ACSIM.

Sustainment brigade volunteers honored for selfless service

By Pvt. Kevin Alex
16th Sust. Bde. Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- Usually the first thing that comes to mind when someone thinks about a military installation is Soldiers, and rightfully so.

However, family members make up a large percentage of an installation's population. Many family members volunteer their free time to take care of the functions necessary for the continued success of our Armed Forces.

"Volunteers are the backbone of the community," said Kimberly Millner, the Army Volunteer Corps coordinator for the Bamberg military community. "Without them, we could not provide all the services that we offer at the United States Army Garrison Bamberg."

For example, volunteers help take care of the families of deployed Soldiers through the Family Readiness Group, or provide kids fun and safe recreational activities by coaching sports or by assisting the American Red Cross.

In May several volunteers from the 16th Sustainment Brigade were recognized for the time and effort they put into their local communities dedicated to helping others.

"I was a little shocked when I found out I had won, but I have to admit it was a nice feeling knowing that all the hard work and long hours were appreciated," said Amy Luekenga, the senior Family Readiness Group advisor for the 391st Combat Sustainment Support Battalion, 16th Sust. Bde. and recipient of the USAG

Bamberg's FRG advisor Volunteer of the Year award. "There are a lot of great FRG advisors out there so it was quite an honor."

I was excited, happy and embarrassed," said Kendra Goodman, the FRG leader for 5th Maintenance Company, 18th CSSB, 16th Sust. Bde., and recipient of the 18th CSSB VOY award. "It was strange being in front of that many people."

There are many different reasons why people volunteer their free time. Some people volunteer to keep busy, others volunteer to learn a skill but some volunteer just to help others.

"It's a personal desire to help our families in the battalion, to be a source of information and to make life easier for others," said Luekenga.

"I just like helping people," added Goodman. "I enjoy making a difference in somebody's life. I've always volunteered so it just comes naturally. It's good for peoples' hearts."

Bde., 21st TSC. "Defending his kids and other people – that's what he does on a daily basis. He's taken an oath to protect his country, and he saw an event taking place and reacted in the interest of protecting his children and people who he didn't even know."

"Peoples is a great (noncommissioned officer) to work with, and he's always at the front doing what he needs to do to take care of the troops, said Staff Sgt. Chad Mitchell, 386th MCT detachment sergeant. "Just like this situation in Florida, if there is something he feels he needs to stop and take care of, if he feels that something isn't right, he's going to step in."

The Sarasota Police Department presented a commendation medal to Peoples later that day for his selfless actions in the face of danger.

Army Suggestion Program

The Army Suggestion Program encourages Soldiers, civilians and any concerned individuals to submit ideas regarding how the Army can increase efficiency and cut costs. Approved suggestions are assessed on how much they save the Army and can earn individuals thousands of dollars. For more information, or to submit an idea, Army Knowledge Online registered users can visit the ASP website at <http://asp.hqda.pentagon.mil/public/>. Those unable to access AKO can submit a DA Form 1045 to their installation coordinator. For more information, call 0951-300-8001.

Eco-Friendly Tips

Water-saving Tips

1. Use only as much water as you need in the kettle to cut your electricity costs at the same time.
2. Plant in the fall when conditions are cooler and rainfall is more plentiful.

Energy-saving Tips

1. When washing laundry use warm instead of hot water.
2. Make it a habit to turn lights off when you leave a room.

Recycling Tips

1. Take your empty cans to the Recycling Center.
2. Buy products with the least amount of packaging or none at all.

Survey results lead to Overseas Housing Allowance increase

U.S. Army in Europe Press Release

HEIDELBERG, Germany – Eligible service members will soon be seeing more money in their bank accounts, thanks to the results from the 2011 OHA Utility and Recurring Maintenance survey.

The increase, which raised the monthly utility allowance by € 32 to a total of € 656, was based on data gathered through the OHA Utility and Recurring Maintenance survey taken by members receiving OHA in Germany. The increase will take effect June 16.

“Thank you to all who took the survey,” said Marlena Walker, USAREUR’s chief of financial management policy. “The increase is a tangible result of the time and effort put into taking the survey.”

Department of Defense Military Advisory Panel members approved the increase May 31.

The next OHA Utility and Recurring Maintenance survey for Germany is scheduled for March 2012.

Gold Stars: symbol of sacrifice, Army’s commitment to families of fallen Soldiers

Donna Engeman started wearing the Gold Star lapel pin after her husband, Chief Warrant Officer John Engeman, was killed southeast of Baghdad on May 14, 2006. She wanted to honor and remember the man she admired as “superman.”

U.S. Army Europe marks its 69th birthday

U.S. Army in Europe Press Release

HEIDELBERG, Germany –U.S. Army Europe will mark its 69th birthday June 8.

USAREUR came to Europe 69 years ago to fight in a multi-national coalition to win World War II, and stayed in Europe to help European allies maintain their freedom during the Cold War.

Since 1989, USAREUR has transformed from a heavy force postured to win a land war on the plains of Europe to an agile, modern, rapidly deployable force; tailored in Europe to train, to deploy and to support multiple combatant commanders.

“Today, the Army in Europe is America’s strategic forward enabler,” said Lt. Gen. Mark P. Hertling, USAREUR’s commanding general. “Our Soldiers prevent war by training with multi-national allies, we build trust with our allies of America’s resolve and commitment to dignity, and we prepare our own forces for an eventuality along the conflict spectrum. We build strong Soldiers and strong teams.”

The command traces its roots back to January 1942 as American Soldiers opened a command post in Belfast, Northern Ireland, in anticipation of combat in World War II. Those first arrivals were the advance party of Headquarters, V Corps, the centerpiece of USAREUR combat forces. The formal date on which USAREUR celebrates its anniversary today goes back to the War Department establishment of the European Theater of Operations, U.S. Army, on June 8, 1942. ETOUSA’s mission was to conduct planning for the retaking of Europe and exercise operational control over U.S. forces.
