Rumble strips to warn drivers entering speed zone

By Sina Kingsbury,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- For some community members on Warner Barracks, cobblestone will not be the only reason motorists might find themselves vibrating down the road.

Rumble strips will be placed at four locations on Warner Barracks to alert drivers that they are entering a 20 kilometer per hour speed zone in the housing and school area.

The maximum speed for vehicles on Warner Barracks is 30 km per hour. Any change to the maximum speed limit is posted in areas affected by a speed-limit change.

"Our priority is to provide a safe and protective atmosphere for our community, especially our children" said Lt. Col. Steven L. Morris, U.S. Army Garrison Bamberg commander. "Slowing down in these areas is an appropriate measure; it ensures drivers have enough reaction time to compensate for an unforeseen event."

Rumblestrips can be an effective measure to alert drivers to changes in the speed limit, according to U.S. Department of Transportation's Federal Highway Administration website. The strips are set to be complete August 1.

"The rumble strips will be placed in both entrances and exits of Pines and Flynn family housing," said Achim Ohlenschlager, Directorate of Public Works master planner.

In addition to the rumble cautioning drivers to mind their speed, reflective illuminators on the strips will be visible at night to warn drivers to decrease their speed, Ohlenschlager said.

Once drivers go over the rumble strips, motorists must not exceed the 20 kph speed limit until drivers go back over the rumble strips when exiting the housing and school zone area, Morris said.

Consequences for not following the speed limit could be severe. The commander has directed suspension of licenses for exceeding the posted speed limits in the school and housing areas.

Drivers exceeding the 20 kph speed limit by 1 to 9 kph, will receive a warning. Subsequent violations will result in seven-day, 30-day, 180-day and 365-day suspensions based on the amount of violations.

Douglas DeMaio

Rumble strips will be placed at the entrance of the school and housing areas to remind motorists of the speed limit. When motorists enter the area, the speed limit remains 20 kilometers per hour until motorists exit the area.

Drivers caught speeding 10 kilometers or more over the 20 kph speed limit will immediately have their license suspended for seven days.

Combat support troops bid farewell to mentor, friend

By Staff Sgt. Lynne Lantin,
16th Sustainment Brigade
Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- Soldiers of the 391st Combat Sustainment Support Battalion, 16th Sust. Brigade said farewell to Command Sgt. Maj. Kent Mace during a relinquishment of responsibility ceremony July 14 here.

Mace spent two years as the battalion command sergeant major and is retiring after 28 years of military service.

He will put his military knowledge and experience to use as an instructor at the United States Army Sergeants Major Academy at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Mace has served in a variety of positions throughout his career to include squad leader, section chief, platoon sergeant, detachment first sergeant, first sergeant and sergeant major in such locations as Germany, Southwest Asia, Washington, Texas and Hawaii.

"Today is the day every battalion commander dreads," said Lt. Col. C.

Elements of the 391st Combat Sustainment Support Battalion, 16th Sust. Brigade, stand in formation during a relinquishment of responsibility ceremony for Command Sgt. Maj. Kent Mace, the 391st CSSB command sergeant major on Warner Barracks, in Bamberg July 14. Mace will go on to work as a civilian instructor at the United States Army Sergeants Major Academy at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Scott Luekenga, the 391st CSSB commander as he addressed Mace during the ceremony. "The day the battalion commander loses his best mentor, his sounding board, his right arm, his best friend."

"CSM Mace, you are remembered as a Soldier, as a Soldier's Soldier, a sergeant major who deeply cared for all Soldiers and their families," Luekenga added. "Today we are saying farewell to a great Soldier, his lovely wife and daughter, after 28 years of dedicated and long sacrifices that were thrown in along the way. Congratulations on a successful career, Godspeed and wish all the best for the Maces in the future."

Mace thanked his family, Soldiers and senior leaders for their support and mentorship.

"I am truly humbled by the show of support that I have witnessed by so many people over my career and especially in the past few weeks," said

Vigilance stressed during Anti-terrorism Awareness Month

Installation Management Command Europe Release

HEIDELBERG, Germany -- For the second year, the Army has designated August as Anti-terrorism Awareness Month. Garrison anti-terrorism officers intend to use the opportunity to train, educate, and increase overall awareness.

As we commemorate the 10th anniversary of Sept. 11, 2001, we must also remain vigilant, especially in light of the recent death of Osama bin Laden, the founder of al-Qaeda, the jihadist organization responsible for the attacks.

Force Protection officials will focus their efforts on heightening awareness and vigilance in order to protect the military communities from acts of terrorism. The Department of the Army AT Awareness Month themes are:

- Recognizing and Reporting Suspicious Activity and High Risk Behavior
- Active Shooter Response Procedures
- Application of Anti-terrorism Doctrinal Principles
- Integrating Anti-terrorism into the Operations Process

The goal is for all Soldiers, civilian and family members to understand the concepts, principles, roles, responsibilities and suspicious activity reporting procedures.

Last year, the Army introduced the iWATCH program during Anti-terrorism Awareness Month. The purpose of the program is to get the word out to our Soldiers, families, and civilian employees about how they can help prevent terrorism and protect our community.

Unfortunately, extremist ideologies and terrorism continue to threaten our Army and our nation. The culture of the Army must evolve in order to recognize that the threat may come from within our own perimeter. If someone says something, or does something that can be described as suspicious, it is your duty to report that activity. You are the first line of defense against terrorism.

Community members must understand the terrorist threat, take actions to detect and deter terrorists, and report all suspicious activities. Fortunately, we have an Army community that wants to help secure our installation and protect our country.

To learn more about iWATCH contact your garrison anti-terrorism officer or check out the U.S. Army Europe iWATCH page at www.eur.army.mil/vigilance/iWATCH.htm.

Community members from Bamberg and Schweinfurt who participate in the faith-based program Club Beyond, travelled to Romania this summer to build a playground for underprivileged students. Many of the members said the experience was of great value to their personal development.

Teens experience different way of life through service project

By Sina Kingsbury,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- Twenty-three years have passed since the overthrow of Romanian dictator Nicolae Ceaușescu.

For many Romanians, they are still struggling with the ghosts of Ceaușescu's rule.

Club Beyond, a teen faith-based program of Military Community Youth Ministries, has been traveling to Romania to help its citizens since the mid 90's.

Sixteen high school students and about six community members from Bamberg and Schweinfurt spent a week in Romania this summer building a playground for an underprivileged school as part of their yearly service project.

"This is our first time being in Romania in around nine years or so," said Shea Morgan, Warner Barracks' Club Beyond and MCYM community director. "I've been on staff with Club Beyond for six years now but I have never been there. This was a new experience for me."

An experience that would not be an easy one, he said.

"Once you hit the suburbs, it kind of trailed off into squalor," Morgan said. "When we were there, big cities were doing pretty well but in the outlying area people are living in shacks and wearing the same clothes every day of the week."

Laura Reisinger, associate community director to Morgan, was surprised by how primitive the area was.

"We were told that our site was one of the better areas," Reisinger said. "It was just shocking because we were using 'squatty potties' in the back of school and there was no running water." For the next week, Club Beyond teens simultaneously ran a vacation bible school and built a playground.

"I noticed that my girls came away just feeling like they could really make a difference," Reisinger said. "We built a playground in five days and we left it there for those kids for as long as it stands. Some of the kids didn't smile at the beginning of the week and by the end of the week they were crying that we were leaving. I think many teenagers get a message that they can't do anything significant because of their age or adults see them as lazy or selfish. For them to come away saying 'I did this for someone else and I made a difference for these people' and that is huge for those kids to take away."

Morgan also believes that lessons the teens learned on their trip were of great value.

"I think it is really important for our teens to experience other cultures. Especially cultures that are not as fortunate as ours and see that life outside of their narrow mind," Morgan said.

Club Beyond is non-denominational program for middle and high school teens of different faith backgrounds. Middle school Club Beyond meets every Thursday at 3 p.m. and high school meets everything Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

For more information on Club Beyond/Military Community Youth Ministries call Shea Morgan or Laura Reisinger at 0951-300-7063 or visit their facebook page at <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Club-Beyond-Bamberg/370315760678>.

Former soldier in Saddam's army now U.S. Soldier

BASRA, Iraq, July 13, 2011 -- Decisions can be painful to make, and sometimes choices can alter the entire course of a person's life. For one 36th Infantry Division Soldier, the tormenting decisions he was forced to make would lead him to a life fraught with danger, isolation and a journey that he never expected.

3-D technology provides detailed human intelligence

ORLANDO, Fla., July 26, 2011 -- Imagine going from looking at the outside of a building, to seeing the internal workings of its electrical system simply by walking around a display case. The sophistication of 3-D holographic technology allows just that.

For Soldiers on the battlefield, the level of intelligence they're getting about a dangerous location -- like a site they're about to ambush or a room where U.S. interests may be located -- can't come to them in a more safe, realistic way.

Army will alter garrison gate services in Europe

U.S. Army Europe and U.S. Army Europe Installation Management Command release

HEIDELBERG, Germany – U.S. Army garrisons in Germany, Italy and Belgium plan to alter services at their gates beginning Aug. 1.

U.S. Army Europe and Installation Management Command Europe officials have developed a plan to adjust contract guard manpower to meet current Department of the Army standards, said Tom Blackwell of USAREUR's Office of the Provost Marshal.

The plan is a workable method to maintain services and provide security within budget limits, said Blackwell. As USAREUR continues its transformation, all parties will refine the plan and adjust man-hours as necessary. He stressed that the changes will not degrade installation security, and said any future changes will be managed to ensure a consistent level of protection.

OPM officials said that the changes may create delays for some drivers entering Army installations in theater during high-traffic periods. They said commanders may use other manpower to reduce the problem or consider adjusting work hours to reduce congestion.

To help ease waiting times, OPM has authorized a "trusted traveler program" to expedite access for DOD ID card holders entering installation gates.

"The trusted traveler program allows a car with several DOD ID card holders access to post by only scanning one ID card," said Blackwell. "The holder of the ID card will be asked to vouch for the remaining ID card holders in the vehicle."

He added that most vehicles enter installations occupied by a single person and suggested that carpooling could help ease the volume of traffic at installation gates.

Blackwell also recommended that anyone with an unregistered ID card register it now at their local Installation Access Control office in compliance with Army in Europe Regulation 190-16 (Installation Access Control).

"People approaching the gates with unregistered ID cards significantly increase customer wait times, especially during high traffic," Blackwell said. "When a gate guard checks a driver's or pedestrian's identification, the process takes less than 15 seconds," he said. "To manually look up an unregistered or forgotten ID card can take up to three minutes, pulling guards away from the lane and holding up traffic."

Soldiers take part in a city tour of Bamberg July 22. The tour is part of the city's annual Soldier reception. Soldiers viewed some of Bamberg's most famous sites like the Schlenkerla brewery and the cathedral where Pope Clement II is buried, which is the only place outside of Italy and France that a pope is buried. The building in the background is Bamberg's New Residence. According to www.bamberg.info/en "Until 1802, the New Residence served as the seat of Bamberg's prince bishops."

Cost of living allowance rate increases

HEIDELBERG, Germany – As a result of the U.S. dollar's depreciation against most European currencies, the cost of living allowance rate increased in July for some Army in Europe Soldiers.

The COLA rate for July, set by the Department of Defense, will result in some service members experiencing a 2-point increase based on their locality.

For example, a staff sergeant who is stationed in Kaiserslautern and has 10 years of service and three dependents would get a $54.84 COLA increase for the month of July.

Soldiers can view their COLA rate by visiting www.defensetravel.dod.mil/site/colaCalc.cfm.

AFN adjustments likely to affect residents' reception

By Douglas DeMaio,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- In less than 96 hours, some residents could be staring at a blank TV screen because satellite reception for American Forces Network on Hotbird 6/9 will cease to exist.

AFN is moving to Eurobird 9A July 31, and while some people will see a flawless transition, others will be left in the dark.

"Everything on post should work," said Arno Schaefer, chief of housing division for the Directorate of Public Works.

Community members on post are not expected to encounter problems with the changeover, but viewers of AFN who live off the installation, in government leased housing, may be without AFN for weeks.

"Housing regulations do not require AFN reception to be provided in government leased housing," Schaefer said. "However, we are working with the owners of leased housing and are looking at other options to adjust the satellite dishes in stairwell buildings as soon as possible."

Only building owners or the government are responsible to adjust satellite dishes that came original with the building, he said. The government cannot pay for installation or adjustments of personally owned satellite dishes of occupants. Some satellite dishes had been installed by previous occupants and left in the building for the new occupant.

"The new occupant came in not knowing the AFN connect had been established by the previous occupant," Schaefer said.

Building owners nor the government will pay to adjust these personally owned satellite dishes; occupants are responsible for the adjustments of these satellite dishes. Adjusting a satellite dish is not time consuming or complex, however, a professional technician needs to make the necessary adjustments for leased stairwell housing.

The satellite dish might be pointing in several directions on a roof and adjustments may take away another channel so a technician is required to make the adjustments, he said. In most cases, the technician will have to order additional parts to keep AFN and other channels working, so adjustments may be completed past the July 31 Hotbird 6/9 end date. Schaefer estimates about eight buildings will be affected by the changeover that is the owners or government's responsibility.

If the building owners do not initiate the necessary work requests for the adjustments, the government will have to make arrangements and pay for the satellite adjustments.

Eco-Friendly Tips

Energy-saving Tips

1. Turn off your stove or oven about 10 minutes before the dish is ready- this saves energy.
2. Don't overdry clothes.

Water-saving Tips

1. One more way to save eight glasses of water a day is to re-use the water left over from cooked or steamed foods to start a scrumptious and nutritious soup.

2. Take short showers instead of baths.

Recycling Tips

1. Crumpled up aluminum foil is ideal for scouring pots and pans.
2. Cleaning out storage? Try selling your stuff rather than taking it to the dump. Check out online auction sites like eBay where you can donate a portion of your sale to a charity of your choice.
