Boxing smoker to take place at Warner Barracks

By Angenetta Lambert,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs volunteer

BAMBERG, Germany -- The bell will ring at The Battle for Bamberg, Feb. 25.

The tournament will feature three rounds of amateur boxing here at the Freedom Fitness Facility beginning at 4 to 10:30 p.m.

"I wanted to bring boxing back to life here in Bamberg," said 1st Lt. Fidel Tamares from 391st Combat Sustainment Support Battalion and the event's organizer.

The Battle for Bamberg will mark the first boxing smoker to occur here since the early nineties.

Installation Management Command-Europe has a few tournaments a year, but beyond that there aren't many other opportunities to compete, Tamares said.

The tournament is open to all U.S. ID cardholders throughout Europe. Applicants will be accepted until the date of the event.

"We've got fighters coming from all over," said Charles Williams, Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation Sports specialist. "They've shown interest from Heidelberg, Vilseck, Ansbach and Grafenwoehr and they're still coming."

"We've projected roughly 16 bouts," Williams said. "Weigh-ins and physicals will determine fighter eligibility, weight class and match-ups."

Web site provides academic assistance to Soldiers, family members

By Heidi Sanders,
USAG Bamberg Public Affairs volunteer

BAMBERG, Germany -- Soldiers and family members struggling with their schoolwork can log on to Tutor.com and get live, individualized help from a tutor any time of day, free of charge.

The Web site offers one-on-one help for students of any age – from kindergarteners to adults – 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Tutor.com users also have access to career services, including job searches, resume writing help and interview preparation.

Tutor.com is a paid service, but the Department of Defense Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation has funded the service for eligible personnel worldwide since January 2010.

Authorized users include United States active duty military members, reservists, National Guardsman; wounded warriors and survivors; and DoD civilians in a deployed status. Dependents of these personnel are also eligible.

Jennifer Kohn, a spokeswoman for Tutor.com, said the response from military users has been positive.

"People like getting this type of help," Kohn said.

She said the service is particularly useful for military children when a parent is deployed.

"Dad is deployed and maybe he is the person that helped them with their math," she said.

To gain free access to the site, eligible users can set up an account by visiting www.tutor.com/military.

Potential users select their military branch and then are asked to confirm their eligibility. After entering their e-mail address and creating password, users have access to a variety of resources.

Tutoring is available to elementary, middle, high school and college students in English, math, science and social studies. After selecting the type of help they need, the user is connected to a chat session with a tutor who is an expert in their subject matter.

Ken Miller, a geometry and computer teacher at Bamberg Middle High School, said he is an avid proponent of Tutor.com and recommends the site to students who need help with their assignments.

"It is a great resource, but not enough of our students use it," Miller said.

Miller said at the beginning of each school year he shows his students how to navigate the site. He said he pulls the site up on the classroom's interactive whiteboard and the class collaboratively presents a question to a tutor.

Miller said the tutors do not know personal information about the users.

"It is pretty safe for kids," he said.

In addition to one-on-one tutoring, Tutor.com users have access to lessons, worksheets, study guides and videos, as well as test preparation resources. Students can submit papers for review to the site's ProofPoint Writing Center.

"They really do great proofing of papers," Miller said.

Students can also bookmark their favorite tutors and save documents on their Tutor.com account.

Miller said students who have used Tutor.com seem to like it.

"The ones that use it, use it religiously and get a benefit out of it," he said.

Miller said he used Tutor.com while working on his master's degree and visits the site to find tools and resources to enhance the lessons he teaches to his students.

"Sometimes I go here (to the site) and find stuff I can use for the classroom," he said.

Oral health promotion target military children

By Spc. Sarah Amo,
Bamberg Dental Clinic

BAMBERG, Germany -- Proper dental health care is vital to the overall health and well-being of every person.

The staff at Bamberg Dental Clinic is committed to promoting dental wellness and strives to raise awareness on how to prevent dental diseases.

One of the main targets for oral health promotion is to ensure children receive proper dental care and are taught early on how to properly care for teeth and gums.

The Bamberg Dental Clinic's pediatric dentist, Dr. Carl Ruggiero, exclusively serves dependent children ages one to 18.

His pediatric practice, in addition to the overseas TRICARE Dental Program, provides parents different oral health care options for their children while being stationed in Germany.

One of the biggest ways that the Bamberg Dental Clinic raises awareness is during the National Children's Dental Health Month.

Every year during the month of February, the pediatric team goes out into the community and stresses the importance of maintaining oral health.

The team visits the schools, dining facilities and the Women, Infants and Children office and talk with staff on how they can promote healthy choices for Families.

The team meets with parent groups, in-person as well as online, through forums and the Bavaria Dental Activity Facebook page.

They also hang posters and distribute boxes of toothbrushes and floss throughout the community.

In support of National Children's Dental Health Month, the dental team will be visiting Bamberg Elementary School Feb. 27 to March 2.

Dr. Ruggiero and his staff will educate the students on maintaining good oral health by teaching proper brushing and flossing techniques as well as educating children on how to make healthy food choices to maintain optimum oral health.

During the week, the dental team will conduct oral screenings at BES to survey the oral health of children in the community and identify those children with immediate treatment needs.

A slip will be provided to each child screened indicating if treatment is recommended. Parents can schedule their child for an appointment with Dr. Ruggiero at the Bamberg Dental Clinic or schedule an appointment with a host nation dentist using their TRICARE dental program benefits.

This screening exam is not a substitute for a check-up at the clinic or with a TRICARE host nation dentist.

This year the Bamberg Dental Clinic is going one step further.

Dr. Ruggiero and his team initiated a program called Operation Healthy Smiles.

Through this program, children can win prizes for their class for simply keeping up with their semiannual dental exams.

To kick off this new project the dental staff is hosting a Dental Wellness Carnival at BES Feb. 29 from 5 to 7 p.m.

There will be various booths set up for children to learn hands-on techniques to maintain a healthy smile, such as basic brushing and flossing games, plaque detection and what foods are good and not so good to eat.

Dr. Ruggiero will be talking to the parents to educate them and keep them involved in their children's oral health.

Take advantage of this opportunity to meet the pediatric oral health care team.

For more information or to make an appointment, call the Bamberg Dental Clinic at 0951-300-1720.

Website helps Soldiers maintain dental readiness

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Texas (Feb. 15, 2012) -- A new comprehensive website is helping Soldiers maintain their dental readiness.

The information site, the Dental Readiness Information Center, or DRIC, contains up-to-date information on dental readiness requirements, available resources for examinations and treatment, and procedures to update a Soldier or unit's dental readiness status. Soldiers can access the website from anywhere via smartphone or by any other internet connection device.

Amnesty program offers assistance to unauthorized child care providers

By Family Child Care Program office

BAMBERG, Germany -- Child, Youth and School Services through the U.S. Army Family Child Care program assists Soldiers and their spouses with obtaining and maintaining quality child care.

It provides parents with a choice of certified providers, ensuring their children are in a safe home environment.

Family Child Care, or FCC, is one of a few child care options for many Families here at Warner Barracks.

Care in a home setting provides Families flexibility to individualize their care hours to support unique Family situations and mission requirements.

FCC services support full day and part day care as well as shift work, extended hours to support the duty day, "round the clock" care, crisis care and contingency care needed for up to three months.

FCC providers are independent contractors trained, certified and authorized to offer child care in government owned or leased by the garrison commander through CYSS.

FCC program staff recruits and trains providers who reside in government-owned or leased housing to become certified in club last year to activate the fighting community.

The club allows participants to enhance their skills and instruct others on methods within the fighting craft.

"We have all types of fighters," Tamares said.

"There's a guy who uses Muai Thai, someone who wrestles and then there's regular boxing," he said. "Everyone is at a different level, from beginner to expert."

Destiny Cilumba, the only civilian participant in Bamberg, said she had no previous experience.

"I was a mess at first. I was a cheerleader, but I wasn't used to this type of physical strain," Cilumba said. "I've become stronger and now I think I'm pretty good."

Tickets are currently on sale. Ringside VIP tickets are available for $20. Regular tickets for ages 12 and older is $4. Youth tickets for ages four through 11 is $2. Children ages three and under have free admission.

For more information, call the Freedom Fitness Facility at 0951-300-8890 or Fidel Tamares at 0951-300-8122.

grants," Holland said. "It would be wonderful to raise over $50,000 to put back into the campaign funds."

Last year over $77 million was raised worldwide, with Warner Barracks community members contributing over $35,000 to the total, she said.

Anyone can donate to the campaign; however, Soldiers are the main contributors. Each company or battalion on post will have an AER representative that will collect the donations.

All contributions are fully tax deductible. Donations cannot be made toward AER as a part of the Combined Federal Campaign because AER is a military program strictly funded by Soldiers and civilian donations.

Donations can be paid by check or credit card. Soldiers also have the option to set-up an allotment to come out of the monthly pay.

Centers.

If you currently provide child care on a regular basis in military owned or leased housing without this certification, you could be in violation of the regulations and standards governing child care providers on military installations.

This care is considered unauthorized child care, and could result in the loss of housing privileges.

The FCC Amnesty Program is a program that allows individuals who are not currently certified FCC providers, but are regularly caring for children in government owned, leased, or privatized quarters, an opportunity to register with CYSS without penalty.

From Feb. 20 to March 20, individuals here at Warner Barracks who come forward and meet the FCC provider eligibility requirements may continue to provide child care while simultaneously going through the FCC Certification process and receive valuable training at no cost to become licensed FCC providers.

The objective of the FCC program is to provide quality care and reduce the potential for accidents and child abuse.

The certification process is easy.

The first step is to call FCC at 0951-300-8035/8660 to make an appointment to interview with our FCC Director and register for our next orientation class.
