Community members came out to celebrate their independence

By Jessica Lipari, USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation helped community members celebrate their independence on the Fourth of July with a day of recreation to celebrate in a manner similar to home.

The daylong celebration had a full range of activities to appeal to all community members: single Soldiers, children and Families.

Lt. Col. Steven L. Morris, U.S. Army Garrison Bamberg commander, hosted the event and thanked all the Soldiers and Families for their service and the nation's freedom.

"With each handshake, each time someone welcomes these Soldiers home, America renews its relationship with the Army and simply says 'thank you,'" Morris said.

Morris went on to thank the Bavarian Motor Cars and Fabergroup Auto Motor Park for their monetary contributions to the day's events.

"Today's event would not have been possible without the support of our sponsors," Morris said.

Prior to tapping the keg and inviting a representative from each unit up for a drink, Morris thanked all the participants that made the day's events happen.

"Thank you for contributing your time and effort to making this year's celebration one of the best across the Army," he said. "DJ Tim Brown is going to rock the stage tonight and the Schenk Duo will dazzle your eyes."

The day's activities began at 9 a.m. with a golf tournament at Whispering Pines Golf Course and a 5-kilometer community fun run at Freedom Fitness Facility, and concluded with fireworks.

Sky Soldiers head to Afghanistan

173rd Airborne Brigade Combat Team and Bamberg Staff reports

BAMBERG, Germany -- Over the past several weeks, Soldiers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade Combat Team have said goodbye to friends and family members as the Soldiers prepare to deploy.

This is the brigade's fifth deployment in nine years and their fourth deployment to Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom.

The 173rd ABCT faces a much different mission this time, as American forces begin to withdraw from the country and Afghan forces take the lead. But after a full-spectrum training exercise and a mission readiness exercise in Grafenwoehr and Hohenfels Training Areas, the brigade is well prepared for whatever they may encounter.

"I may be biased, but I believe the Army did well in choosing the 173rd Airborne Brigade to return again to Afghanistan," said Col. Andrew Rohling, 173rd ABCT commander, during a ceremony to case the unit's colors on June 14 in Vicenza, Italy. "This is a brigade who knows how to fight, knows how to win, knows how to take care of Soldiers and knows how to take care of Families.

"It is a brigade that is surrounded by a great community and command that provides unwavering support every day."

The fireworks were made possible this year thanks to a substantial donation from the Bamberg Spouses and Civilians' Club, Morris said.

Family Readiness Groups and private organizations raised funds to support their cause during the celebration. From selling food and typical American snacks to providing activities like the beauty pageant, jailhouse and dunk tank, all were able to walk away with a few extra dollars in their pocket to support their own future activities.

Easier access to post for immediate family members visiting

By Jessica Lipari, USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- When friends and family members vacation in Germany to visit Soldiers and their Family, there are several things that can be done to make their visit easier.

These include temporary installation passes for guests, authorization to drive a U.S. Army Europe plated vehicle and requesting supplemental-ration of tax-free fuel.

Guest Installation Passes

Due to recent changes in the sign-in procedure at the garrisons located in the Franconia Military Community, getting installation passes for visiting Family can speed up the process when traveling on or off post.

There are three types of installation passes available for friends and family members of sponsors on Warner Barracks. U.S. Army Garrison Ansbach and Schweinfurt have similar policies.

Long-term passes, Army in Europe Form 190-16A, are issued for up to one year and the sponsor must live on post. This type of pass is typically for sponsors with German family members.

A long-term pass can only be issued for immediate family members. The Installation Access Control System Office handles these requests.

Short-term passes, AE Form 190-16A, are issued for one to 90 days based upon the visitors plane ticket and/or tourist visa if applicable. The sponsor must live on post or, if living off post, the visitor has to be a U.S. citizen. The IACS registration office can handle these requests.

Both passes require the application and documents to be submitted at least two to three business days prior to the visitor requiring the pass.

Once the application is processed, the sponsor and visitor must go in person to the appropriate office to receive the pass. The visitor will have their photo and fingerprints taken at this time.

For a short visit, an application, AE Form 190-16, can be submitted to add your guest to the access roster. The access roster allows visitors to access post without signing in by showing their passport and verification that their name is on the access roster list.

The various guest installation passes can be used at any gate, including the smart gates, at USAG Bamberg and USAG Schweinfurt. In Ansbach, at the time of requesting installation passes they will determine which Kaserne the pass may be used at.

The installation passes are only good for the installation they are issued at and if you visit other garrisons the sponsor will have to sign in the

Bamberg teens lend a helping hand in Romania

By Heidi Sanders, USAG Bamberg Public Affairs

BAMBERG, Germany -- Ten high-school aged teens from Bamberg's Club Beyond gave up part of their summer vacation to serve the people of Romania during Club Beyond's annual service project June 15-24.

About 350 students and leaders from Club Beyond, a teen faith-based program of Military Community Youth Ministries, at military communities across Europe participated in the service project. They were spread out at five sites near Cluj, Romania.

Bamberg was teamed up with groups from SHAPE in Belgium and Spangdahlem, Germany.

This is the second year in a row the group from Bamberg has traveled to Romania for the service project, said Laura Reisinger, community director for Club Beyond in Bamberg.

"Before, we had done trips to Poland and Czech Republic," Reisinger said.

During their time in Romania, the teens spent time building a playground for school children in Romania and offering vacation Bible school activities and English classes for Romanian children in first through seventh grade.

Reisinger said it was hot in Romania but that didn't stop the teens from helping out. She said during last year's project it rained a lot, which made it difficult to build a playground.

"There were several days (this year) where I think it hit 100 degrees, but it didn't rain which was awesome," she said. "I was impressed with the high school kids for persevering in the crazy amount of heat. They were tired, but they pushed through."

The teens' camp costs help cover the expense of the materials to build the playground.

Supplies for activities, such as sports, were donated by military community members. Reisinger said the Bamberg chapel community donated a lot of the needed supplies.

She said at first some Romanians were skeptical of the Americans' offer to build them a playground for free.

"By the end of the week they realized we were there just to love on them and we didn't want anything back," she said.

Reisinger, who served as a site leader, said she is proud of the group's contributions.

"Some people see them (teenagers) as not being able to have an impact," she said. "They don't get that feeling (of being able to make a difference) a whole lot. I just love seeing our kids take up this much responsibility and be passionate about doing something."

Teens from Club Beyond test out their newly built playground. The Bamberg high schoolers gave up part of their summer to help Romanians during Club Beyond's annual service project June 15-24.

Reisinger said the teens seemed to have an impact on the Romanian children.

"It was cool to see teenage boys interacting with these little kids," she said.

Tori Miller, one of the participants from Bamberg, said the service project was an experience she won't forget.

"I wouldn't trade the experience for anything in the world," Miller, 17, said. "I really learned that we have to appreciate what we have before we want anything more. I am extremely lucky to live the life that I do."

Miller said she had never been to a place like Romania before.

"It was shocking and amazing and breathtaking all at once," Miller said.

"You could really see how God works his way through the heart of people who don't really have a lot," she said.

Reisinger said Club Beyond will have a variety of activities this summer for teens in middle and high school.

On Tuesdays, there will be an outdoor activity, such as caving or kayaking. A Bible study will be offered Thursdays from 6-8 p.m. in the chapel.

For more information, find Club Beyond Bamberg on Facebook or send Laura Reisinger an email at lreisinger@clubbeyond.org.

The dynamometer this year brought in a long line up of cars waiting to have their car's horsepower and torque measured.

Thanks to the weather cooperating and the many activities, more than 5,000 community members came out to celebrate during the peak times according to Jack Austin, Family and MWR entertainment director.

"As well as the weather held up and made for a perfect afternoon outing, the stream of people kept coming," Austin said. "They were finding ways into all corners of the event to enjoy themselves and celebrate the day, maybe more so than in any prior year here."

Letting visitors drive your privately owned vehicle

Visiting friends and relatives can drive a USAREUR-plated vehicle independently within Germany if the registered user of the privately owned vehicle gets approval from the local military customs office.

In addition, no approval is required to drive the POV if the registered user is in the vehicle while they are driving. Residents of Germany cannot operate a USAREUR-plated POV at anytime unless they are a spouse and authorized on the registration.

To get approval, the registered user must complete AE Form 550-175C-R. They must present the visitor's passport, their international driving permit and proof of insurance through the vehicle owner's insurance company to the custom office.

The exception to policy can be granted for one to 90 days from the visitor's arrival date in Europe.

Once the exception to policy authority document is processed, the visiting driver must keep it in the vehicle at all times along with the vehicle registration, proof of insurance and international driver's permit.

International driver permits should be obtained prior to the friend or relative's visit.

Allowing a guest to drive your POV with the proper approval from the customs office does not allow them to buy tax-free gasoline at an Army Air Force Exchange Service or use the ESSO fuel card off post.

For more information, call the Customs Field Office Bamberg at 0951-300-7460/9312, the Customs Field Office Schweinfurt at 09721-96-8846/8847 or the Customs Field Office Ansbach at 0981-183-7842.

Temporary Supplemental-Ration Request

Having company come to visit usually includes traveling around Germany and can quickly consume the monthly ration of tax-free gasoline provided.

To help alleviate the burden, they can submit a temporary supplemental-ration request, AE form 600-17A.

Up to one month's basic ration amount can be approved as supplemental rations and it is added to the current month's ration amount.

For more information, visit the USAREUR Registry of Motor Vehicles website: <http://www.hqusareur.army.mil/mv/forms.htm>.

Eco-Friendly Tips

Energy-saving Tips

1. Buy locally raised and organic meat, eggs and dairy whenever you can. Purchasing from local farmers keeps money in the local economy, is healthy and lowers energy use for packaging and transport.
2. Air your rooms overnight or in the early hours of the day. This lowers the need for air conditioning. Keep windows closed when using cooling units.

Recycling Tips

1. Best use for an empty pump soap dispenser: Fill again with liquid soap detergent.
2. Before disposing of new, unused things you no longer need ask friends and neighbors if they need it.

Water-saving Tips

1. Choose drought-tolerant native plants for your garden. Many plants need minimal watering. Find out which occur naturally in your area.
2. Take shorter showers to reduce water use. This will lower your water and heating bills too. Use a bucket to collect water while waiting for the shower to get hot, and use this for watering your plants.
